Scots Lasses Are Willing

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI) -More than a hundred Scots lasses are offering to marry Californian John Andrews, whose aunt advised him to find a Scottish bride.

Andrews, a 25-year-old real estate appraiser from Newport Beach, Calif., wrote to Lord Provost of Dundee explaining he has inherited $105,000 under the will of his aunt and it was her wish that he should marry a girl from Scotland.

He asked the lord provost, Alexander MacKenzie, to help him find a "compassionate redhead or blonde," aged between 18 and 27. Andrews offered a reward of 50 pounds ($120) to the person who helps him to "meet the right girl."

Decision Urgent

Publisher and Editor-in-Chief

FEELING OF EXASPERATION is excusable among those who believe that even the most tentative meeting of minds might find an avenue to an acceptable peace in Vietnam.

When President Lyndon Johnson made his de-escalation gesture on March 31 by restricting the bombardment of North Vietnam and Hanoi responded by offering to meet American representatives, there was a quick flame of optimism.

But it burns less brightly today.

In the minds of the optimistic, President Johnson had unexpectedly assumed a mantle of statesmanship not only by re-opening the way to negotiations but by removing himself from the political scene in renouncing any idea of a further term in office. This second step, it was felt, would be a considerable inducement to conversations between Hanoi and the anti-Communist alliance.

People remembered—and they still remember how the president had promised to meet anywhere at any time with representatives from Hanoi, and here were the receptive responses of North Vietnamese diplomats and the most encouraging developments in

The Communists suggested Phnom Penh, in Cambodia, as a convenient meeting-place, a neutral ground. But Washington said it had not the requisite facilities for such a conference. Hanoi proposed Warsaw as an alternative. But the United States' objection in this case was that the Polish capital was not a neutral

The Americans have expressed willingness to meet their diplomatic counterparts at Geneva, Vientiane in Laos, Rangoon in Burma, or New Delhi. Hanoi has indicated it would consider the latter acceptable. But, meanwhile, there are signs of growing impatience with what the Communists call American delaying tactics.

President Johnson on Monday flew to Honolulu for what were described as high-level strategy talks on Vietnam and discussions with South Korea's President Park Chung Hee. And while it is true he has other complex problems besides Vietnam on his mind, since he has already named the American representatives for any talks with Hanoi further delays in accepting a site for them are unnecessarily dangerous.

Off-stage come the continued promptings of Communist China, urging Hanoi to seek a military solution in Vietnam. "Only by inflicting a complete defeat on the American aggressor . . . will the Vietnamese people attain the aims of national liberation and reunification," says the official Peking People's Daily.

It would be a blunder of incalculable consequences if, for whatever reason, President Johnson misses the opportunity of the first step towards peace negotia-tions that still presents itself. New Delhi, Phnom Penh, Warsaw-what does it matter?

The urgent requirement is to start talking.

Pollution Protests

CONSERVATIONISTS MAY BE unduly agitated about a new provision of British Columbia's Pollution Control Act which places a restriction on the right to object officially to the granting of a pollution control permit. But time will tell.

Previously the act allowed any person who considered his rights would be affected by the granting of a permit the opportunity of presenting his oppo-As amended in the legislative session recently ended, it confines direct protests to owners of land and users of water who would be affected. Others who wish to argue against the issuance of a permit will have to apply to the Pollution Control Board director for permission, and his decision will be final.

The Amalgamated Conservation Society has taken the stand that this legislation forbids public participation in vital issues concerning the control of the environment, and is an encroachment on the basic rights of citizens in connection with the control and use of water resources, which in its opinion are public domain. It also refers to "the erosion of public rights for the purpose of bureaucratic expedience, which in our opinion is not justifiable cause to restrict the democratic rights and privileges of the citizens of this

Resources Minister Ray Williston, at least somewhat to the contrary, has explained that the act was amended for greater clarity, adopting Water Act language in use for many years, and, to give greater latitude to objectors, adding the provision that those who do not qualify may seek the permission of the director to present their case. The contention of the conservation society that control of the environment is a matter of concern to all, and not merely to those who have a proprietary interest, can hardly be denied. But whether or not the legislation has truly eroded public rights will be seen in the actions of the control board. If in coming months the director recognizes these rights and grants permission to responsible representatives of the public nterest -- conservation groups for example -- to be heard on the issuance of permits, all well and good. And this is what the people of the province will cer-

But if it is seen in the months ahead that parties whose use or enjoyment of the public domain is affected by pollution control permits are in fact barred from being officially heard, a clamor for another change will be entirely justifiable.

More white babies and fewer black ones is the doublebarrelled aim of South Africa's government.

This country's 3,600,000 whites are outnumbered by 12,700,000 Africans — officially termed Bantu. There also are 1,800,000 persons of mixed blood, designed as colored, and 486,000 Asians.

Only 19 per cent of South Africa's population is white. If present trends continue, whites will be down to 14 per cent of the total by the end of the century and outnumbered 6-to-1 by non-whites.

"Unless white couples give up birth control and restore the Afrikaner tradition of big families, white South Africa will commit suicide," said a memo submitted by an Afrikaans group to Prime Minister John Vorster. * * *

A week before his assassination, a peaceful procession led by King through Memphis and turned into a riot. It was the first time the Gandhian Negro was unable to contain unruly demonstrators in his presence.

In some quarters, the outbreak was regarded as a prelude to what lay ahead in Washington when King planned to wage a campaign of civil disobedience this week.

Impaired Charges Up Despite Balloon Law

By BRIAN DOHERTY

British Columbia's 24-hour brated its first birthday this month, leaving behind it a year in which the city took 238 drivers off the road.

The law, the first in Canada when it came into effect in the Greater Victoria area on April 5, 1967, is designed to keep the social drinker off

It is not aimed at impaired drivers. Those who are impaired in the opinion of police are charged. These 'who,' are not, but who have enough to drink to make them a risk on the highways, came into the reach of the suspension

Motorists who dispute a policeman's opinion that they have drunk a little too much may take the balloon test which registers blood-alcohol counts of .08 per cent.

Of the 238 suspended between April 5, 1967, and April 5. 1968, in the city, only nine quarrelled with the policeman and insisted upon the test. The readings were positive in all cases and the licences were lifted for 24 hours.

Apartments Uninhabitable for Month

Tenants Flee $100,000 Fire

Damage may run as high as $100,000 from a fire which tore up a garbage chute at the Haro Apartments, 1400 Beach Drive, Sunday afternoon, sending tenants scattering.

No one was injured in the blaze, noticed by a tenant at 5:45 p.m. There are 15 suites in the three-storey building.

An Oak Bay Fire Department spokesman said a woman noticed the burning in the chute, caused by hot garbage being lodged in the garbage drop.

The flames raced to the building's roof and mushroomed out, burning the false ceiling, apartments on the top floor and parts of the second floor.

One truck from the city fire department attended, joining the 16 Oak Bay firemen under the direction of assistant chief Alan Reside and Lieut. Harold England.

It was a difficult fire to get at. Firemen with saws and axes cut through the roof and then grabbed hand lamps as black smoke from insulation blurred their sight.

The door of one apartment was forced open and Oak

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You will swear this letter is phony, because my story reads like a four-bit novel but I am begging you to take it seriously because I am on the level.

I go to a well-known girl's school in the East. I became engaged to a college senior three months ago. When I went to his home to meet his parents I flipped over his father. At first I told myself it was too crazy for words and I tried to laugh it off, but I can't laugh any more, and neither can he. We have met several times and he is as zonked over me as I am over him. He wants to divorce his wife and marry me next year. My fiance knows nothing of this. I am tearing myself to pieces with indecision. Could it work? He is 27 years older than I am. His wife is three years older than he is and a semi-invalid. After being with Senior, Junior strikes me as amateur Knight. Could this marriage possibly work? Help me, please. I am not sleeping well these nights. —MISS ICARUS (GET IT)

Dear Miss Icarus: Yeah, I get it and my advice is Drop Daedalus — no pun intended. If you can't sleep now how much sleep do you think you'll get if you allow this aging Romeo to dump his ailing wife and walk off with his son's sweetheart? The man must have rocks in his head and you have a few sizable boulders yourself, Kiddo.

This whole scene is a cross between Sigmund Freud and a Greek tragedy. Forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: May I say something in defence of Gladys, the woman who says there is "nothing so terrible" about leaving the price tag on a gift? She has my vote.

I am a store manager who would be very pleased if all the customers left the sales slips, price tags and all other tags on the gifts. When merchandise is brought back to the store for exchange it is a real headache if all signs of size, price, and sales are removed. ### PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

By this time everyone has or should have heard about the Royal Commission into the Status of Women. But even at this late date—the hearings open here today—there seems to be a certain haziness in general understanding of the reason why. Anne Francis, chairman of the commission, can put you straight in two minutes. At least that is what she did for me when I saw her at the Empress on Monday after-"This isn't a war between men and women," she says, it is a serious sociology

"We are moving into an entirely new world, and we want to be prepared for it,"

Anne goes on.
This entails what type of training will be needed by young people, more particularly young women so they will be able to fit into this new world.

"The time is coming when people will be judged on their ability, not on their sex," Anne Francis says.

And for that old one: "Would you like to see a woman prime minister?" she isn't a bit backward in saying that "a prime minister should be in office on menit and be the best possible person, regardless of sex."

Off with Their Heads!

In the growing of sweet peas, the novice gardener finds it hard to understand why you should nip the tips off perfectly healthy plants when they get to be four or five inches tall.

The sweet pea grower of some experience though, knows very well that you get earlier and better flowers from this simple operation of beheading the baby plants.

He knows, too, that these stopped plants will continue to bloom longer into the season, for they have a better root system and a better growth foundation on which to keep the vine functioning.

Old-timers use a versatile and highlytrained thumbnail for this nipping job. Me - I borrow my wife's manicure scissors and clip away the top half-inch of vine from each little plant as it reaches the four-inch mark. As a result of this beheading, two and sometimes three strong shoots will emerge from the original stem at or near soil level, and these make much more vigorous and healthy growth than the original

Don't allow all of these induced basel shoots to develop. Retain one single stem - the strongest one - if you want blooms of exhibition quality, or two at the most if you want more flowers of good but not price-winning status.

19 x x x When we erect our sweet pea netting - fish net or chicken wire - there is always a gap between the lower edge of the netting and the ground, and the young vines are expected to struggle upward across this five or six-inch gap as best they can. This is a critical time in the life of a sweet pea vine - when climbing begins — and all kinds of unpleasant things can happen — and usually do — before the vines get themselves safely attached to their support. For instance, a gale of wind or a torrent of rain may batter the little plants into the ground, or they may topple over from their own weight before making it to the lower edge of the netting. When this happens, while the vine tips will turn up and resume their upward journey, the accident will

This kink hampers the free flow of sap up the vin, just as a kink in the garden hose will cut down on the flow of water.

It also isn't good for the tender and delicate tip of the sweep pea vine to lie in contact with damp soil efter being blown over.

Support of some kind should always be supplied for the baby plants from the moment the growing tip first pokes its nose through the soil surface, and for this purpose I don't know of anything better than bushy little tree twigs, just tall enough to bridge the gap between the ground and the bottom edge of the sweet pea strings or netting.

Just push the twigs into the soil around and between the seedlings in such a manner as to hold them upright. These bits of twiggy brushwood actually serve two purposes. In addition to supporting the young vines until they learn to climb on their own, the bushy twigs serve to break the force of chilly spring winds at a time when the plants

'One Good Question'

There is a great, and seemingly permanent, confusion in the public mind about what constitutes "science." When most people talk about "science," they are really talking about "technology" - which is responsible for some of the good and many of the bad things around today.

* * * Science is a method of answering theoretical questions; technology is a method of solving practical problems (and thus creating new problems out of the "solutions"). Science didn't create the atomic bomb; technology did that. But we live in an age when technology dominates science, through the allocation of funds and resources.

Actually, as Dr. Joseph W. Still has recently pointed out, "It is not true that in order to do research it is necessary to have thousands of dollars worth of elaborate equipment. All you need is one good question."

1957 Nobel Prizes in medicine were given to three doctors for developing and perfecting the technique of cardiac catheterization.

* * * Some of the most basic research on the properties of rubber were performed at a tiny South Carolina college by a man using a ruler, some weights, a thermometer, and a box of rubber bands.

"The most important experiment I ever performed," Dr. Still goes on to say, "cost less than $50 of actual money. It was one of the first two experiments to disprove the belief in 'universal chemical turnover' that had achieved almost the status of a natural law prior to such experi-

Stars Hard to Lasso

HOLLYWOOD, (NANA) - Alan Arkin wanted $350,000 when Bob Hope asked him to star in his upcoming western. So Bob then approached Clint Eastwood who wanted $500,000. Then he went to Steve McQueen and learned his price was 7750,000 plus a percentage. "But in any case," Bob told me ruefully, "they were all booked through 1969."

* * * I take back some of my doubts about Fay Dunaway photographer Jerry Schatzberg. I've learned that Jerry is a very bright boy and completely with the modern scene, His friends believe he will make a brilliant director, even though he has not directed films before

* * * After those reviews for Blake Edwards' recent picture with Peter Sellers, The Party, Blake's fiance, Julie Andrews, may be wondering if she is wise to make her next film with him, Say It with Music, as well as their current Darling Lili. The man who loves you is not necessarily the right man to direct you in a film. * * *

The funniest movie ad I have ever seen was used in the Jakarta Times to publicize The Empty Canvas: "American film produce with such well reputed film actors as: Chaterine Spaak, sex - appealing Hollywood firm actor and ennchanting artist. Horst Buckholz, Hollywood firm actor who reached his great success. Beete Davis, old-crack Hollywood film actor, There's more, but you get the idea.

Rod Stelger wore high heels when he played a woman in No Way to Treat A Lady. But as Napoleon in Waterloo he will wear no heels at all. Nappy was on the short side.

It's not often, if ever, that Doris Day consents to playing the mother of a full-grown son. And when she did for With Six You Get Egg Roll, she chose John Findlater from the Nina Blanchard model agency, so you know he is good looking. Miss Day's son Terry and Candy Bergen were having a rather torrid romance that seems to have gone into low gear, or are they staying away from the public places?

Gaylord Hanser, who taught Greta Garbe how to eat nutritiously so many years ago, has been asked to write his memoirs. He might. Meanwhile Gaylord is writing a new cookbook to teach women that nutrition is more important

While chatting with Gwen Verdon on the Sweet Charity set, and watching her husband Bob Fesse direct Shirley Maclaine, I was told that Hob's next project will be Big Deal, an ail-male musical. Then Gwen will do a musical on Broadway, in the fall, which Bob will direct and of course do the choreography.

While I was at Universal I was informed that Ross Hunter's Thoroughly Modern Millie movie with Julie Andrews is the biggest money-maker in the studio's 56-year history. * * *

Michael Caine was saying in Spain, wher he is starring in Play Dirty, that while he adores women (as if we didn't know) he cannot bear the thought of being tied to one woman for the rest of his life. Variety is the spice and all that but the chase gets a bit tiring as a man gets older, as Cary Grant and Frank Sinatra have discovered.

When Gene Kelly completes his directional assignment on Hello Dolly! he plans an updated version of On the Town, made originally at MGM with Frank Sinatra and Ann Miller. Whatever happened to Ann?

The Jimmy Stewarts will be off on another safari in Africa early in the summer. James has completed five films in a row, the latest Firecreek, but wouldn't mind squeezing in another picture before he and wife Gloria take to the jungles of Kenya.

You know when a romance is over when the man tries to get a job for another girl. Don Stroud, who was the special pet of Shelley Winters, has been promoting a movie career at Universal for a pretty girl whose first name is Stephe

Refuse Threat Grows

Martin Luther King's successor warned the city of Memphis Monday night to settle its 10week-old sanitation strike within two days or "we are going to stop those trucks by putting our bodies in front of them."

Dr. Ralph Abernathy, who succeeded the slain King as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, told an audience of 2,500 Negroes jammed into a church auditorium that "we can make Memphis straight."

Abernathy said he would give strike to an end. During that time, he said, he would hold a two-day "retreat" with his staff to map plans.

"When we come back we will put our marching shoes on," he said. "When we come back we're going to stop those trucks by putting our bodies in front of them."

The city, has carried on limited garbage collections using other personnel on the trucks during the strike by 1,200 garbage men, most of them Negroes.

Sex Drink Given For Free

BELGRADE (AP) - The bottom fell out of Kladanj's little gold mine Monday when water from a local spring it hoped to sell on the male sex market was put back on the public utilities list, to be distributed free.

Sunday the council of the Bospian mountain town started selling water from the spring-claimed by locals to contain properties for increasing a man's sexual potency-at eight cents a quart.

Officials said Monday the aim of selling the water was to squeeze out black marketeers who had been selling it at up to 80 cents a quart.

"Apparently we achieved the opposite effect," Budimir Miletic, director of a newlyformed company for the exploitation of minerals and mineral water, announced in Kladanj.

* * *
The town authorities had erected a six-foot barbed wire fence around the spring and two officials were posted Sunday to sell the stuff. But hundreds of men from all over Europe preferred to dodge the queles and pay black market

"We now have decided to suspend its sale and it will be distributed free of charge," Miletic said, adding that distribution will limit a person to a quart a day.

Tests are still going on to determine if the water really does have sexy properties.

A Victoria mother and daughter are dead and a father and son are missing after two separate boating accidents on the racing Cowichan River over the Easter weekend.

The bodies of Mrs. Norman Joan Cook, 35, and her daughter Helen, 3, were found at the river's edge after a 20-foot riverboat with her husband, Dr. Norman Cook, and two other daughters, Cathy, 9 and Laura, 7, tipped Sunday evening sending all five occupants into the raging torrent. ### Stephen Brings Out For It' Demonstrators

By GEORGE INGLIS

Demonstrators for peace in Vietnam caused a brief flurry Saturday at HMC Dockyard in Esquimalt, as they staged a sit-in across the roadway at the main gate.

The demonstrators, about 20 of them, advanced on the main gate at about 3 p.m., with the intention of sending a 12-man delegation into the yard to stage a sit-in on the U.S. Submarine, Razorback, which is visiting Esquimalt.

* * * The commissionaires turned back the unauthorized visitors, and they decided to stage the sit-in across the road, while the rest of the demonstrators marched up and down the sidewalk, carrying signs saying "Stop American butchery

Esquimalt police, called to the scene by the Navy shore patrol, removed the seated demonstrators, one of whom had to be carried.

Traffic resumed in and out of the gate and the demonstrators continued to march up and down for about an hour, handing out leaflets which urged "U.S. get out of Vietnam-Get out of Canada.'

Several demonstrators questioned said they were not members of an organized group—just private citizens who are disturbed about the war in Vietnam, the presence of nuclear missiles on Vancouver Island (in Nanoose Bay), and the danger of U.S. dominance of Canada.

One of them, Frank Cox of 1240 Glyn, said he had taken part in several leaflet-distributing expeditions last summer, handing them out to tourists arriving on Black Ball ferries.
"And we will be doing a lot more this summer," he said.

By PETER BUCKLEY

MOSCOW (CP) - Any Canadian planning a visit to the Soviet Union should include a trip on a Soviet hydrofoil in the list of attractions.

It stands as one of the purest pleasures of travel in this country.

Apart from providing a close-in look at the vital riverways and attractive scenery of the Soviet countryside, a hydrofoil trip is often the quickest way to travel between many of the great river-side cities of the U.S.S.R.,

Its main limitations are that cannot operate after dark because of increased danger of collision at high speed, and it cannot operate in waves greater than 30 inches high for the Raketa and Cometa or 60 inches for the Meteor.

The ministry's engineers are working now on designing ships with a shallower draught than the current ones, which draw up to eight feet when afloat. And they're considering the use of aircraft turbine engines instead of diesel-driven propellers to in-

Fabulous Island Campsites

With several hundred miles of beaches and beautiful bays and inlets, 103 fishing rivers, and hundreds of lakes of varying sizes Vancouver Island offers a wonderful camping playground.

Nearly every mile of public road offers a new place to camp or stay in a comfortable tourist bungalow. Twenty five per cent of British Columbia's provincial parks branch camping and picnic units are on Vancouver Island and last year the camping units attracted 18 per cent the province's outdoor visitors.

There are more than 25 provincial parks on the Island, but there are also scores of private camping grounds and resorts on the finest beaches and sports fishing grounds.

Most visitors combine their camping trip with some stays at the rustic-type provincial camp-grounds which are the finest to found anywhere in North America, and other stays at private campgrounds which offer hot showers, washing facilities and other amenities not found in, and not sought in, the wilderness parks units.

This combination-type camping holiday provides the beach, was the interpretation lovely streamside strolls, and it are its main attractions. Destined to become Vancouver Island's most popular beach playground is Rathtrevor Beach, which saw its first year of operation as a provincial park last year. It was so popular that even on weekdays the "full" sign had to be posted and commissionaires had to be hired to control the crowds. It has a beach where the tide runs out for a mile, and as yet has not been brought up to provincial park standards.

Last summer the provincial parks branch put in two campsites on the shores of Buttle Lake, one at Ralph Creek which was full almost before it opened for the July 1 weekend, and the other at the north end of the lake, just beyond the bridge across Buttle Lake on the Gold River road.

This year a few new camping units will be added at Ralph River Campsite and the launching ramp area, about a mile north of the campground, will be improved to handle overflow trailers and campers.

The waters inside the spit at Deep Bay are closed for oyster gathering because of pollution, the waters outside the spit are fine. There are a few oysters along Qualicum Bay, but it is a better clam digging area. The shoreline of Nanoose Bay, adjacent to the Island Highway and especially towards the head of the bay is a good oyster beach. Hammond Bay and Piper's Lagoon are good public oyster gathering beaches near Nanaimo.
